A Master Falconer authorized to possess Golden Eagles for use in falconry may capture a Golden Eagle under the provisions in 50 CFR part 22.

RAPTOR COLLECTING PERMIT (RCPs) ISSUING GUIDELINES

Passage Take Guidelines

Passage birds may be taken in Nebraska from 1 August through 31 January. RCP applications for passage take will be accepted beginning 1 July of each year. Each RCP application and permit may include multiple species, but each permit will only be valid for capturing one (1) bird. A falconer may submit as many RCP permit applications as desired.

All RCPs for passage take will be filled on a “first come, first served” basis until a species’ allotment, as determined during that particular year based on current information, is exhausted. If an individual has been issued an RCP for a species and filled the permit (i.e., captured a passage bird), another RCP may not be issued for that species to that individual for three years. If an individual does not fill an RCP, said individual is eligible to submit an RCP in any subsequent year.

Eyas Take Guidelines

RCP applications for eyas take will be accepted beginning 10 January each year. An RCP application and permit may include multiple species, but each permit will only be valid for capturing one (1) bird. A falconer may submit as many RCP permit applications as desired.

All RCPs for eyas take will be filled on a “first come, first-served” basis until a species’ allotment, as determined during that particular year based on current information, is exhausted. If an individual has been issued an RCP for a species and filled the permit (i.e., captured an eyas), another RCP may not be issued for that species to that individual for three years. If an individual does not fill an RCP, said individual is eligible to submit an RCP during any subsequent year.
